

HORUS: God of Vengeance

Horus had a special position in ancient Egypt. The child of Osiris and Isis, he avenged his father's death and ruled Egypt. According to myth, he is also considered the child of Zeb and Nut, and this falcon-headed god with a crown of red and white was worshiped as the god of sky, war, protection, and light.

AMUN-RA: The Hidden One

The Egyptian god Amun-Ra was considered the king of the gods and goddesses. He was thought to be the father of the pharaohs. Forming the Theban Triad, Amun and Mut along with their son Khonsu, the moon god, were worshiped throughout ancient Egypt.

SEKHMET: Goddess of War and Healing

Leading and protecting the pharaohs during war, Sekhmet, the daughter of Ra, is depicted as a lioness and is known for her fierce character. She is also known as the Powerful One and is capable of destroying the enemies of her allies.